The Rev. B. J. White, pastor of First Assembly of God Church, was guest speaker before Hope Kiwanis club Tuesday and used as his topic "Trade at Home" idea in which there was lively discussion of audience participation. The program was arranged by Bob Myers.

Jerry Johnson was introduced as a new member of the club, and guests were the Rev. Gerald W. Trussell, pastor of First Baptist Church of Hope; Jim Lockhart, also of Hope; and George Covington of Conway.

Trying for Good Relations

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — South African Premier Balthazar J. Vorster opened talks here today with Prime Minister Leaboa Jonathan of Lesotho in an attempt to foster friendly relations between the two neighboring countries.

It was the first meeting of a premier of white-ruled South Africa with the black premier of an independent African country in South African soil.

Jonathan met premier Hendrik F. Verwoerd in Pretoria last September a few days before Verwoerd was assassinated, but Lesotho was then still the British protectorate of Basutoland.

Makes Clear Reforms Are Planned

By ROBERT L. SEAW
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's inaugural address Tuesday made clear that the new governor planned to move firmly into the area of reform legislation.

Rockefeller talked most strongly of major prison reform. He talked of badly needed basic reforms, "as basic as our state Constitution of 1874," although he did not go so far as to urge a constitutional convention.

He also discussed the need for other reforms.

The legislators who heard his address came away favorably impressed, but the new governor cannot count on pure rhetoric to sway votes on legislation, especially since his party has only three seats in the General Assembly — all in the House.

So, Rockefeller, while striving for change, can be expected to move cautiously.

The "honeymoon" between the Republican governor and the Democratic legislature, if there was to be one, appeared to be over before it began Monday, the first day of the 56th General Assembly. Rockefeller suffered his first rebuff then when the Senate confirmed 93 appointments by Gov. Orval Faubus when by tradition it politely refuses to burden an incoming governor with "the other man's" appointees.

Rockefeller set the tone in his inaugural.

"It is my conviction that the majority of people who voted for me want a change," he said. "Personally, I believe that the change that the people want is not one in the spirit of vindictiveness, but of confidence, and of faith."

He appealed to bipartisanship.

"We come here committed not to discord, but to doing; not to destroying, but to discovering; not to dividing, but to dissolving old problems with new solutions," he said.

Rockefeller indicated that he would press hardest of major reform within the prison system to clear up "deplorable conditions." He said he would ask the legislature to give it "the very highest priority."

"No burden rests more heavily on the conscience of Arkansas, hour by hour, than a prison system regarded by professional penologists as being generally the worst in the United States," he said.

He said he felt it unwise to embark "suddenly" on a constitutional convention, although he said certain provisions of the much-criticized constitution "are as ill-fitted to our times, quite understandably, as would be the clothing of those men who framed it."

He suggested that the state form a commission to study the problems of the constitution and propose solutions before an effort is made to change it.

He also encouraged greater protection for state employees from the vagaries of politics by enacting legislation similar to the federal Hatch Act and extending the Merit System to more of the state's more than 15,000 employees. Currently, 2,500 are covered.

To insure continuing efficiency in state government, Rockefeller said, he will propose establishing a Department of Administration to co-ordinate inter-governmental affairs.

The new governor touched on the broad spectrum of subjects he had covered in the campaign — improving education to build an "era of excellence," building more and better roads and expanding tourism. He also expressed concern for welfare recipients, the municipalities, water management and regional economic planning.

"Now is not the time for party politics," he said. "I was elected by Republicans, Democrats and independents — by people of all races and creeds, from all walks of life."

"As the 17th elected governor, I intend to represent all, and so I dedicate my administration to the people of Arkansas."

Mrs. RFK Wins Starving Horse Suit

FAIRFAX, Va. (AP) — Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy has won dismissal of a $30,000 damage suit stemming from her aid to a starving horse.

The wife of the New York senator said she was "relieved and delighted" when the jury ruled in her favor after a two-day trial in Fairfax County Circuit Court.

Horsebreeder Nicholas M. Zamo, Washington, D.C., brought the civil action, contending Mrs. Kennedy illegally took possession of his thoroughbred, Pando.

The case stemmed from an incident in October 1963 when Mrs. Kennedy came upon a "horse in distress" in what she said was a dilapidated rooming chicken coop. She ordered her groom, Richard Mayberry, to take in the emaciated, starving horse and get it proper attention. The horse died five days later.

"Maybe she had the best intentions," Zamo's lawyer, Martin E. Morris, told the jury, "but what she did was wrong without respect to property rights."

Mrs. Kennedy's two attorneys argued that if the jury ruled against her, people would be "afraid to get involved" in coming to the aid of man or beast in distress for fear of legal retaliation.

Red Delegate Turns on the Charm

NEW YORK (AP) — Nikolai T. Fedorenko, handsome chief Soviet delegate to the United Nations, turned to the silky charm Tuesday night for U.N. television viewers.

Fedorenko, usually screened in grim U.N. debates with envoys from the West, bubbled with mirth and good humor on the Merv Griffin variety show, during his 15-minute appearance in the coast-to-coast network program of the Westinghouse Broadcasting Co., the talk, well-tailored diplomat swapped jokes with Griffin and showed pictures of his wife, three daughters and son-in-law.

When Fedorenko appeared on stage with his long hair and characteristic bow tie, the mostly teenage studio audience gave him a rapturous reception, waving, whoop and shout. Griffin, who speaks fluent English, commented that long hair was once a Russian tradition, "but it is international now."

Fedorenko's appearance in such a program was without precedent. The closest thing to it in memory was Premier Nikita Khrushchev's television interview by David Susskind during the 1960 U.N. General Assembly.

Birth Pills Widely Used

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — A Rutgers University sociologist says that contraceptives are contributing to New Jersey's three-year decline in births.

"The pills have made it easier to control births and there are several million women in the country using them," said Dr. Robert Gutman, professor of sociology and a population analyst at Rutgers.

Gutman said he felt the falling birth rate was most pronounced among Roman Catholics, who he said were using the pills in greater numbers, and the poor who were unskilled in using mechanical contraceptives.

The State Health Department reported last week that 1966 marked the third successive lowering of the state's birthrate. There were 121,413 births last year, compared with 132,606 in 1963.

Utah Has the Republicans

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — The Republicans outnumbered the Democrats 19-11 in the Utah House of Representatives on Tuesday.

When Speaker of the House Franklin W. Cannon announced his party would hold a caucus in one of the large lunch rooms, he brought down the House by adding:

"And we've reserved a telephone booth for the Democrats."

Soviet positions in the purge in Red China and the Vietnam war but otherwise was just one of the boys.

He plugged three books he had written — in Russian — in China and Japan.

He said his wife liked Channel 5, where the show appears in New York City, and also "from Paris — another Channel 5."

He gave a Havana cigar to a 12-year-old Bob Crosby, thanked British actress Lynn Redgrave for complimentary reference to the Soviet Union and invited Griffin to visit his homeland.

Commenting on recent events in Red China, Fedorenko said the so-called great cultural revolution "has nothing to do with the real culture, with the real revolution, with the real proletarian" or with real Marxism, Leninism or communism.

Coalition in Business in House

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

WASHINGTON (AP) — The old coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats appears back in business in the House after defeating the Democratic leadership in test votes.

The result of balloting Tuesday on efforts to seat Rep. Adam Clayton Powell and on adoption of House rules bodes ill for the Johnson administration.

For it showed strong discipline among Republicans and also that the November election defeated enough Democrats to take away the working majority the administration enjoyed in the past session.

Republicans gained a net total of 47 seats, leaving Democrats with a numerical majority of 248 to 187.

After winning re-election as speaker by a party-line vote of 346 to 186, John W. McCormack scarcely won anything else.

A leadership move to seat Powell pending an investigation of his activities was defeated 305 to 126 and a Republican motion to keep him out pending an investigation was then adopted, 364 to 164.

Republicans voted solidly against Powell. Democrats were split with Northerners generally supporting the Harlem congressman and Southerners opposing him.

The House then turned to adoption of rules, and the leadership promptly got licked again.

A move by Majority Leader Carl Albert to keep last session's liberal rules, adopted when Democrats enjoyed a 295-140 majority, was blocked 224 to 194.

Republicans and Southern Democrats then combined on a 232-135 roll call vote to eliminate the controversial 21-day rule, which originally was adopted to get bills directly to the floor if blocked 21 days by the Rules Committee.

The loss of the 21-day rule in itself is not too serious for the leadership. But it revealed that the Southern Democratic-Republican coalition, which dominated the House for many years until broken by the 1964 Democratic landslide, was able to command a clear majority on what was a liberal vs. conservative issue.

Tuesday's actions, coming on top of twin rebuffs administered McCormack Monday by the Democratic caucus on voting to oust Powell as chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee and on election of the House clerk, undoubtedly will have a psychological effect.

Republicans lost practically every House vote the past two years. Their appetites were whetted by Tuesday's victories.

CHATTER

By "BILL"

We have just finished taking inventory at Raley's Style Shoppe. It is not the most pleasant job we have ever had. There is nothing exciting about it but it is enlightening.

What it amounts to is simply this: we have one person write while another calls prices. In this way we handle every piece of merchandise in the whole shop.

It gives us a chance to find exactly what we have and also what we would like to reduce for clearance. You will be surprised at the number of dresses that are as smart as can be but will have to go on the sale block. We discovered at least 100. They can be worn for almost all occasions but mostly for day-wear. 1 group at 1/2 price - others are 33 1/2 per cent off.

In another category we find several suits from very famous makers. We can't name them here but you will know the minute you see them. They will all be reduced one-third. Come early because we do not have all sizes. They are all one of a kind designs.

Our stock of winter coats is going fast but we still have some. The latest weather prediction is two months of the coldest weather yet, so it might be well to come right down and purchase that coat. They are 1/2 price. In sizes for Juniors, Petite, & Misses.

It has been a long, long time since we had a sale on knits. But we would like to clear everything while we are about it and have all fall and winter knits on sale at 33 & one-third off. Two groups of sportswear reduced. One at one-third off, the other at 1/2 price.

There are other bargains. We hope you will see them all at

We think you'll enjoy this program!!

Starting Sunday at the Saenger don't miss "The Appaloosa" in color starring Marlon Brando. If you are wondering - "The Appaloosa" is a stallion that plays the key role in the film. It has action, adventure and suspense - is suitable for the whole family to see. John Saxon, a young star we have always enjoyed is in this picture too. It will have a preview showing Saturday at our late show at 11 P.M.

The Dixie Drive in will be closed awhile and when it reopens it will be with a brand new modern snack bar - enlarged to twice its former size. More about that later.

For those who like adult films - we have one called "The Oscar" coming up next midweek which you have probably read about. Come on down and have fun with folks at the movies.

MISS VIRGINIA EDWARDS HONOREE AT A SHOWER

Miss Virginia Edwards, bride-elect of Morton Wheatley, has been the honoree at two bridal showers recently. The first was a linen shower held December 30 in Malvern at the home of Mrs. George Taylor with Mrs. Alton Huffman, co-hostess.

For the party Miss Edwards wore beige and white wool and pinned yellow carnations at her shoulder. Mrs. J. C. Wheatley of Malvern, mother of the future bridegroom, wore blue wool, and Mrs. B.W. Edwards of Hope, mother of the bride-elect was attired in green silk. Each had a white carnation corsage.

A green and white color scheme was used for the serving table, where tasty refreshments were enjoyed. Several clever games were played during the entertainment hours, and honoree received many pretty gifts.

On Thursday, January 5 college friends of Miss Edwards had a miscellaneous shower for her at the new women's dormitory at Southern State College in Magnolia. Hostesses were Misses: Diana Althia, Marla Manning, Max Jack, Martha Rice, Joan Catlin, Donna Massey, and Wanda Holmes.

Attired in red wool, the honoree was presented a white carnation corsage. Decorations included an attractive bride doll in the center of the table where many lovely and useful gifts were displayed.

Several games were played, and delicious refreshments were served to 15 guests.

CHURCH GROUP MEET

The annual combined meeting of WSCS Circles and Wesleyan Service Guilds was held at the First Methodist Church on Sunday afternoon, January 8, under the direction of Mrs. Harry McLemore, WSCS President. A challenge for the new year based on passages of Ezekiel was given to the assembled group by Mrs. Leon Bundy.

"The Role of Women in the Church" was the theme of the program which Mrs. Chris Petre presented, and a chorus of WSCS and Guild members sang "Father, Take My Hand" by Dvorak.

Following the meeting in the church sanctuary, the women's groups had a tea in the recreation rooms of the church. From a table centered with mums and carrying out the pink color scheme, coffee, spiced tea, and cookies were served. Mrs. B. C. Hyatt, Guild No. 1 President, and Mrs. Jamie Russell, Guild No. 2 President, poured.

The Hat Was Traditional

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—When the Arizona Legislature opened its 1967 session Monday, Lloyd House wore a tall, black hat, a suit with Western cut, black cowboy boots, a cowboy shirt and handcrafted Indian jewelry.

House is a 35-year-old Navajo-Oneida and the first Indian elected to the Arizona Legislature. He is a Democrat.

Asked about the hat, House said it's traditional for a "head man" among Navajos. "It's also good for attracting squaws," he said.

Television and Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Invaders," ABC's new adventure series is not likely to bore its viewers, but it is likely to give impressionable young ones some scary dreams.

The opening program Tuesday night started the hero off on dangerous efforts to expose a fantastic plot from outer space. David Vincent, played by Roy Thinnes, gets lost returning from a business trip, takes a nap in his car and awakens to see a flying saucer landing nearby.

No one believes his story. The sheriff and even his partner suggest that what he needs is a good rest. When they reluctantly visit the scene they encounter a young honeymooning couple camped nearby who insist they saw nothing. But David notices they have funny hands.

For reasons not quite clear he returns alone, is attacked by the couple, passes out and winds up in a sanitarium, labeled a psycho. Determined, he follows them to a ghost town and concludes the couple is among enemies from another world about to take over this one.

There is plenty of action. But occasionally the viewer is tempted to snort impatiently at the hero's silly conduct. Thinnes is a good actor but the character is not very bright.

The series falls neatly into the category of "running men" — "The Fugitive" and "Run For Your Life." While these two established shows wrap up each episode "The Invaders" promises to be a continued story.

"The Beatles at Shea Stadium," which preceded the new show on the network was an hour special that would have been infinitely better if it had been cut in half. It was filmed when the British quartet, at the peak of popularity, attracted almost 60,000 squealing, hysterical and even fainting young fans to a New York arena many months ago.

The photography was excellent, but any entertainment was drowned in the annoying background noise coming from the screaming youngsters.

Recommended tonight: "Wednesday Night at the Movies," ABC, 9-11 EST, premiere of still another series of feature movie reruns, starting with the 1955 "Ulysses," with Kirk Douglas.

WOMEN BLAMED FOR ALL MEN'S WOES

Dear Helen: Are you as tired as I am about being blamed for all of men's short-comings?

Twentieth Century Man is supposed to be:

1. Insecure, because women are trying to take over his world.
2. Chasers, because women don't treat them right at home.
3. "Frigid," because wives demand too much of them, and are overaggressive.
4. Failures, because wives don't appreciate them, or women take their job's.
5. Heart cases, because wives over-feed them.
6. Ulcer cases, because of their family's demands.
7. Uninterested in their own wives because those wives make things so dull, and duty-ridden.
8. Alcoholics because of nagging. . . or untrue wives, maybe.
9. Deserters because their wives demand too much alimony.
10. Too sharp businessmen because of their wives' extravagance.
11. Weak feathers because their wives won't let them command.

All the vices and weaknesses known to males are nowadays blamed on women. It's a wonder we females can look anyone in the eyes, considering all the junk that is written about us. We're lionesses, jackals, leaches, magpies, dogs, cats, barracudas, black widow spiders, but never - dear!

Isn't it about time somebody started appreciating us again? NOT THAT BAD

Dear NBT: Certainly! Seems to me with all this pseudo-psychological junk being written nowadays, men at last think they have women just where they want them. If our dear boys get the least bit out of line they can point to one of those dumb articles or columns and growl, "It's all your fault, miserable females, you're age of some kind of sport?— in a conspiracy to emasculate us!" Isn't it nice we don't believe them.—H.

Dear Helen: I met this fellow exactly one year ago. He lives about 80 miles from my apartment house. He has been coming to see me about twice a month. We go to movies, restaurants and then he takes me home. He has never shown any love for me, just friendliness and courtesy.

He tells me about his ex-wife and about women he meets. I just listen. He talks about his love for children, about how the women he dates are jealous because he likes their children. Things like that.

I got tired of getting nowhere so I was "busy" for five weeks, every time he called. Then he came over last Sunday. He said, "I'm not in love with you, but I miss seeing and talking with you."

Please tell me how to let him know I am—HUMAN TOO

Dear H. T.: He makes no demands, so why should you? Twice a month you're assured of a movie and a meal. In between times you're free to find a man who sees you as more than a listening ear. Why not settle for friendship and look for romance elsewhere? Unless of course you love the guy more than you implied in your letter, in which case ask HIS advice about your other male friends. This might jar him into action.—H.

Dear Helen: I don't like the implication that surfers, looking for German helmets, and iron crosses, are fascists. It seems to be taken for granted these days that anyone wearing either of these wants to advertise he's a Nazi.

Do people think that every German soldier in World War II was a Nazi? Is every American fighting in Vietnam a Democrat? No, they go, whether they like it or not. The German soldiers were drafted the same way. Only if they refused to go, they were shot.

The Iron cross? Helen, that originated in 1813 and has nothing to do with the Nazi Party. It is a medal of bravery; How would Americans like it if German teenagers were to use their "purple heart" as an insult, miserable females, you're age of some kind of sport?— in a conspiracy to emasculate MARGRETE

TCU Leads Conference Cage Race

By DENNE R. FREEMAN
Associated Press Writer

Texas Christian was the undisputed leader of the Southwest Conference basketball chase today because the Horned Frogs kept cool in the pressure cooker at College Station.

The Horned Frogs, trailing Texas A&M by six points with little more than three minutes to go, swept past the Aggies 67-74 Tuesday night on the clutch shooting of Mickey McCarty and Johnny Underwood.

Compled with defending champion Southern Methodist's 82-73 loss to Texas at Austin, the victory gave TCU a 3-0 conference record and sole possession of first place.

In other games Texas Tech snapped a 10-game losing streak by whipping Rice 81-49 at Lubbock and Baylor clamped a sticky man-to-man defense on Arkansas for a 69-63 triumph at Waco.

SMU and Texas are now tied for second place with 2-1 marks. The remaining conference games are lumped together with 1-2 records.

McCarty, who scored 20 points for the night, poured in seven points on the foreign court at G. Riddle Coliseum to help erase a 60-54 A&M lead with 3:10 minutes to play. Underwood sank four pressure free throws and Carey Sloan hit two.

The Aggies, tied with TCU 37-37 at halftime, were led by John Underwood's 16 points. Ronnie Parker had 15.

Texas Christian, despite having the disadvantage of shooting free throws before visiting A&M fans, connected on 19 of 24 charity tosses while the Cadets cashed only 14 of 27.

Texas coach SMU 16-1 in a four-minute stretch of the last half. Billy Arnold of Texas tallied 23 points, most of them in the second half on driving layups and shots from the corner.

The SMU Mustangs, paced by the 16 point-production of both Bob Bagert and Denny Holman, appeared to lose their poise and were hurt by traveling and poor passes. SMU was leading 62-55 before Texas went on its scoring spurge. The Ponies trailed 41-46 at halftime.

In Lubbock, big Vernon Paul, sidelined in December by an appendectomy, gave the Texas Tech Red Raiders a much needed scoring punch as he returned to the lineup. Paul hit 10 of 13 shots from the field and connected on two free throws for 22 points. The victory snapped a 10-game Tech losing streak.

The Red Raiders shot 66 per cent from the field to Rice's 50.1 per cent. Bill Doty was high for the Owls with 18 points.

Baylor surprised Arkansas with its man-to-man defense in the second half after trying to outduddle the Razorbacks with a zone setup in the first 30 minutes. Arkansas appeared rattled by the change and could not hold 50 per cent of its shots in the second half.

The Bears were sparked by Jimmy Turner's 26 points—21 of them in the last half. Wally Freeman was high for Arkansas with 18.

TCU and Baylor will be the focus of the week. SMU enters the race in Dallas and Arkansas is set to meet A&M Saturday night. Texas meets Texas Tech in a day game Saturday at Austin.

Baylor Hot, Porkers Again Lose

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Baylor hit 57 per cent of its shots from the field Tuesday night and snapped Arkansas' 10-0 Southwest Conference basketball game.

Jimmy Turner led the Bears with 26 points, getting 21 in the second half as Baylor came from behind to win. Arkansas led 34-32 at halftime.

Wally Freeman led Arkansas with 18 points while Tommy Howland, the Porkers' leading scorer, was held to 11.

The game left the Razorbacks and Bears with 1-2 records in the conference.

Abraham Lincoln was not a member of any church. Although not a formal member.

Southern State Beats Teachers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Defending champion Southern State outlasted in the second half Tuesday night but generated enough power in the first half to clip Arkansas State Teachers 86-79 in move into first place in the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference basketball race.

Elsewhere in the league, Harding upset Hendrix 75-71, Henderson beat Arkansas A&M 70-67, Arkansas College stopped Ouachita Baptist 73-68 and Arkansas Tech edged Ozarks 84-81.

The action left SSC with a 4-0 AIC and 10-2 overall record. ASTC fell to second with a 3-2 AIC record.

The Mulvillers took complete control at the start against the Bears, rambling to a 24-point lead before settling for a 51-29 halftime advantage.

But the persistent Bears kept chopping away in the final half without ever catching up. ASTC did get within four points in the final 19 seconds but the Mulvillers pulled away again.

Charlie Jones and Milton Hancock scored 20 points each for SSC while Danny Wood paced ASTC with 18.

Harding overcame a 10-point deficit with six minutes remaining, going ahead by five with a 10-point spurt of their own to upend Hendrix.

Bob McKeel hit two free throws 10 left to give Harding a 70-69 lead and then stole a pass and hit a layup with 11 seconds to go to put the game on ice.

George Frazier had 18 points and 11 rebounds and McKeel 15 points for Harding. Phil Benton led Hendrix with 14.

Bill Cossey's 27 points paved the way in Arkansas College's triumph over Ouachita. Don Purdy hit 19 points for OBU.

Paul Brown scored 26 points and John Groves 25 as Tech tripped Ozarks. Tech led 48-46 at halftime despite a 74 per cent field goal shooting percentage for Ozarks at that point. Bob Chance scored 23 for the losers.

Larry Dockworth's 26 points led Henderson over A&M.

Experience to Be Big Factor

By MIKE RATHER
Associated Press Sports Writer
LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The way Jerry Mays, Kansas City's All-League defensive end, sees Sunday's Super Bowl game, Green Bay's experience won't be as big a factor as the Chiefs' poor-boy vs. rich-boy motivation.

"There are two motivations in this game," the Chiefs' defensive captain pointed out today. "One, I is the Packers' pride to prove their reputation is justified. No. 2 is the underdog role, which we have."

"We're the poor kids from across the tracks coming over to play against the rich kids who've had everything their way all this time."

"I don't think there are very many motivations as great as that."

While giving the Chiefs the psychological edge for the first meeting between the National and American football league champions, Mays admitted the Packers were more experienced — and they were about denying its importance.

"Experience is great — no doubt about that," said the 6-foot-4, 255-pound veteran. "And experience is definitely a factor, but as far as it being a major thing, that idea was pretty well shot down by the way the Dallas Cowboys did this year."

"The boys and the Eastern title, led the league in offense, scored 50 points here and there — and had no more experience than we have, probably have more young guys, and have been in existence as long as we have."

Barry Shows Warriors Are Factor

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sharpshooting Rick Barry and giant Nate Thurmond showed an All-Star game audience that the surprising San Francisco Warriors will be hard to catch in this second half of the National Basketball Association race.

Barry's 38 points and the rebounding and muscle work of the 6-foot, 11-inch Thurmond were major factors Tuesday night in boosting the underdog West to a 135-120 victory over the East.

In NBA All-Star game annals, Barry's point production is topped only by the 42 scored by Wilt Chamberlain in 1962. The second-year Warrior star from the University of Miami won the most valuable player trophy with 66 votes from seven men covering the game.

There are those who think it should have gone to Thurmond.

"Nate was the equalizer," commented Coach Fred Schaus of Los Angeles who directed the West. "He was the entire key to the ball game. With Thurmond able to contest the entire East front line (on rebounds), we were able to run. This was our game plan."

"Another big key was Dave DeBusschere who got 15 points in the second quarter. Barry, of course was great. But again Thurmond was the man."

The improved pair are big reasons why the Warriors, who finished fourth and out of the playoffs a year ago, are currently leading the Western Division by eight games.

Chamberlain, who played and scored 14 points despite an injured Achilles tendon, agreed with Schaus.

"Thurmond definitely was the most valuable player. He did the entire job while Barry just put the ball through the hoop."

Nate collected 20 votes with four going to DeBusschere.

Red Auerbach, back to coaching for just one night, drew the thumb from referee Willie Smith in the third period for complaining too emphatically. The East coach had been charged with one technical foul in the first half and the second one caused the ban.

The former coach of Boston's all-winning Celtics who now concentrates on the general manager job, left the court.

Clay Trying to Get Out of Draft

By ARTHUR EVERETT
NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay appeared to be hanging on the ropes today in his battle to avoid military service, but his lawyer said his fight with Uncle Sam still is in the early rounds. "The champ is far from in a jam — we may knock them out on this," said attorney Hayden Covington. He added he's prepared to go as high as the U.S. Supreme Court to try to exempt Clay from the draft as a Black Muslim minister.

A five-man state Selective Service appeals board in Frankfort, Ky., refused Tuesday to classify Clay as a conscientious objector. The decision was unanimous, blocking any appeal to Washington and leaving him 1A and prime for the draft.

Clay, whose 35th birthday is next Tuesday, was in Houston, Tex., training for a Feb. 6 title defense against Ernie Terrell. The champ said he didn't think the latest draft ruling would affect his career immediately.

Covington went further than that — he estimated it might be months or years before Clay's draft status finally is clarified.

Besides deferment as a conscientious objector, Clay, 6-foot-2, and 215 pounds, also has filed for draft exemption as a minister in the Black Muslim faith, which he embraced three years ago under the name Muhammad Ali.

"He is pursuing his ministry as his vocation, this means his main job, time-wise," Covington told a newsman.

The lawyer estimated Clay devotes 90 per cent of his time to lecturing and seeking converts to the Muslim faith, and added:

"He is entitled to be classed IV-D, which is not a deferment but an exemption as a minister."

The lawyer said he will press for the ministerial exemption from Clay's local draft board in his native Louisville, prepared to appeal any adverse decision as high as possible within the Selective Service organization.

Coaches Like Football Playoff Plan

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — The coaches' suggestion for a playoff plan to determine the national collegiate football championship drew a cool reception today from the college administrators.

"It has its problems," said Everett D. Eppy Barnes of Colgate University, president of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, regarding a series of eliminations at the end of the season.

"Such a plan would tend to extend the season perhaps as much as an extra month. I talked with several college deans on the subject. They are fearful that it would be too heavy a load."

Walter Byers, executive director of the NCAA, declined comment until he had time to study the full coaches' recommendation, but he said:

"We are now playing post-season football from the first week in December through the first of January. I can't see that a playoff would add greatly to extending the season if it could be worked into the bowl games."

The trustees of the American College Football Coaches Association, with former Oklahoma Coach Bud Wilkinson as spokesman, urged Tuesday that a study be made of the feasibility of a playoff plan to select an official national football champion.

Currently the champion is determined on polls.

After the announcement that such a proposal had been made to the NCAA Executive Committee, a panel of prominent coaches batted the idea around informally and hit on this agreement:

1. A playoff is possible without endangering the bowl games.
2. It would enlarge the image of the college game.
3. It would not be an academic strain.

The panel included Duffy

Daugherty of Michigan State, Paul (Bear) Bryant of Alabama, John McKay of Southern California, Frank Broyles of Arkansas and Ben Schwartzwalder of Syracuse.

Groups May Reopen War

NEW YORK (AP) — Problems that might arise over an indoor track meet here in February could reopen the war between the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Amateur Athletic Union over which group should control track and field in the United States.

The United States Track and Field Federation, an arm of the NCAA, has scheduled an invitational meet for Feb. 10. It has not asked for AAU sanction because so far the meet is open only to USTFF members.

The AAU, however, has raised objections to some athletes who are members of both the AAU and USTFF competing without AAU sanction.

Such athletes — mostly graduates students — stand to lose eligibility for AAU meets and foreign competition, AAU Executive Director Col. Don Hull said Monday.

Bill Ward of St. John's University, who is running the meet, said AAU sanction may be asked if additional athletes are needed to round out some events, but that members of both organizations should be allowed to compete without AAU sanction.

Vice President Hubert Humphrey has appointed a committee headed by New York lawyer Theodore W. Kheel to mediate the dispute.

Proves Little Man Is Also Valuable

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
Willie Worsley has demonstrated anew that there'll always be a place for a little guy in college basketball.

Worsley, a mere 5-foot-6, made like UCLA's 7-1½ Lew Alcindor in reverse in leading Texas Western, the national champions, to a come-from-behind 85-73 victory over West Texas State Tuesday night.

Wicked Willie, a native of New York City like Alcindor, threw in 34 points on 14 field goals and six of eight free throws in leading the Miners to victory from a 41-37 halftime deficit at Canyon, Tex.

Worsley got 25 of his points in the second half as the Miners put the game on ice with a 15-point spree that erased a 63-60 West Texas lead with nine minutes left.

The sixth-ranked Miners were the only team in The Associated Press Top Ten to see action, but there was plenty of competition among other major clubs.

Art Beatty, at 7-1 one of the big guys in the collegiate sport, scored 28 points to lead American University to an upset 94-90 overtime victory over LaSalle in Washington.

Furman also came through with a surprise 69-68 overtime triumph over Georgia Tech at Greenville, S.C. It was the first time in 12 years that Furman has defeated the Yellow Jackets. Mike Muth, who scored 19 points altogether for the Paladins, tied the score at 62-62 with 32 seconds left in regulation time, then won the game with two free throws with six seconds left in the OT.

Cincinnati thumped Dayton 62-49, St. Louis downed Creighton 84-79, Northwestern humbled Illinois 104-96, Kansas State whipped Missouri 75-65, Wisconsin whacked Michigan 98-90, Duke defeated Clemson 85-61 and Miami, Fla. edged Oklahoma City 111-109 in other games.

Hein Entered in Pole Vault

Robinson Is Athlete of the Year

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Frank Robinson, the slugging outfielder who led Baltimore to baseball's world championship, was named the male athlete-of-the-year for 1966 today in the annual Associated Press poll.

The 31-year-old Oriole beat out pitching star Sandy Koufax and Jim Ryun, the world's fastest miler, in a close vote.

Robinson drew 119 first-place votes and 586 points. Koufax collected 98 votes for No. 1 and 501 points while Ryun, named the top athlete on 103 ballots, was third with 466 points.

Bart Starr, quarterback for Green Bay's National Football League Champion, was a distant fourth with 164 points.

A total of 428 sports writers plus radio and television sportscasters participated in the balloting. Points were awarded on a basis of 3 for a first-place vote, 2 for second and 1 for third. Robinson, obtained from Cincinnati in December 1965, was a unanimous choice as the American League's Most Valuable Player last season after winning the circuit's triple crown. Heled in batting with a .316 average, home runs with 49 and runs batted in, 122.

In the Orioles four-game World Series sweep over the Los Angeles Dodgers, Robinson provided his team's first runs with a two-run homer in the opener plus the only run of the fourth game with another home run. He played from May on with a stretched tendon in his right knee that required surgery Nov. 22.

Robinson is the fifth baseball player in the past six years to win the top male athlete award. Roger Maris of the New York Yankees was named in 1961, Maury Wills of the Dodgers in 1962 and Koufax in 1963 and 1965. The 1964 choice was Olympic swim star Don Schollander.

The Fraternal Order of Eagles will present the award to Robinson on Feb. 11 in San Francisco.

Koufax, the Dodgers' brilliant southpaw who retired from the game two months ago because of an arthritic left arm, won the Cy Young award for a unprecedented third time in 1966. Koufax was the selected the majors' outstanding pitcher because he won more games than any other, 27, completed 27 of 41 starts while leading in strikeouts with 317 and earned run average, 1.73. He also pitched the National League pennant clincher, beating Philadelphia 6-3 on the final day of the season.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Doctors No Longer Lump Kidney Ailments Together

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Things were fairly simple in the old days when doctors referred to all types of kidney disease as nephritis or Bright's disease. The catch was that the treatment used wasn't equally effective in all patients. Although this may be true of any disease, it is especially true when three or four diseases are lumped together under an umbrella diagnosis.

Years of patient study have revealed that in addition to several types of true nephritis, which are fairly closely related, there are two types of kidney disease which are quite different—nephrosis and nephrosclerosis.

The term nephrosis covers a group of diseases in which the urine is loaded with albumin, the albumin level of the blood is markedly subnormal and there is waterlogging of the tissues. The underlying kidney damage
may be due to an allergy, poison ivy, insect stings, an infection, lupus erythema-tosis or poisoning with heavy metal compounds, such as those of mercury, gold or bismuth. The first symptom is often puffiness of the face.
There may also be an accumulation of fluid in the abdominal cavity, loss of appetite and general peplnessness.

Treatment is directed first at the cause if it can be determined. The diet should be high in protein and as nearly salt-free as possible, as long as there is any evidence of waterlogging. Drugs of the cortisone group are usually given. Good results with other drugs have also been reported.

Nephrosis is seen in children more often than in adults but is more serious in adults. Recurrences are common.

Nephrosclerosis is a complication of malignant hypertension which, in turn, is a result of a combination of persistent high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries. The kidney ailment occurs only after many years of uncontrolled high blood pressure and is associated with swelling of the retina and a resultant blurring of vision.

Since very little can be done for this disease, vigorous measures to control high blood pressure should be pursued in all persons whose diastolic (lower reading) is 100 or more.

PRODUCTIVE FIELD that has been planted in corn continuously for the past 14 years averaged 230.62 bushels per acre for Frank Elsea of Green Castle, Mo., this past harvest season. Perfect rains and generous applications of fertilizer contributed to this year's success, Elsea noted.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The first Olympic Games were held by the ancient city-states of Greece in 776 B.C., says the World Almanac. They were continued every four years until A.D. 394 when they were banned by the Roman emperor Theodosius. The modern Olympic Games were started by Baron de Coubertin in 1896. He succeeded in persuading nine nations to send athletes to Athens for the first meet.

INDUSTRIAL VERSION OF THE CHICKEN AND THE EGG

Jim: "Don von Elsner dedicated his book 'The Ace of Spies' to you. Is his hero, Jason Winkman, a copy of any specific bridge expert?"

Oswald: "No. I would say that Jason Winkman is a composite of the best qualities plus a few added bad qualities of several."

Jim: "He has your nickname, Jake, and like you, he is a retired Naval officer."

Oswald: "The resemblance ceases there. Jake Winkman is a carefree bachelor of 39. Jake Jacoby is a 64-year-old grandfather who still refers to your mother as 'The Boss.'"

Jim: "Getting back to bridge, here is a simple hand from the book that shows some of the trials and tribulations of a bridge expert."

Oswald: "In the book, Ivan Erdos of Los Angeles was sitting North. The bidding is not given but Winkman comments, 'South opened one heart. Ivan got to six hearts by a brilliant series of tactical bids designed to discourage a save by his nonvulnerable opponents.'"

Jim: "Here are Winkman's comments on the play: 'South won the spade lead in dummy and immediately called for a low heart and put up the ace! Incredible, you say! Nothing is incredible at the bridge table. The odds are 78 to 22 against finding all three hearts in the same hand and half the time when they do break that way, the bundle of three will lie with East. All of which makes the king of hearts an automatic play at trick two.'"

Oswald: "As usual, Winkman is correct in his analysis. If West held all three hearts, South had no way to avoid a heart loser. If they were going to break 2-1 as all good trump suits should, it would not matter how South played his trumps, but actual play lost a trick to East which correct play would have guarded against."

Selling House Means More Detailed Return

By RAY DE CRANE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A loss on the sale of your home is never deductible on your income tax return. A gain may or may not be taxable depending upon your age and other circumstances.

Like the sale of any other asset, accounting for the sale of a home where there is a gain must be done on Schedule D, a special supplement to Form 1040.

Let's assume you sold your home at a profit and that you are under 65. What happens?

You have a currently taxed profit only if the adjusted sales price of the home you sold exceeds the cost of a new home purchased or constructed within the appropriate time period.

The adjusted sales price is your gross selling price reduced by "fixing up expenses" and "selling expenses."

"Fixing up expenses" are those costs undertaken to make your home more salable. They include painting, decorating and repairs. They must have been made within 90 days before the sale was contracted for and paid for within 30 days after the sale to be considered.

Selling expenses include real estate commissions, advertising expense and legal fees in connection with the sale.

If your replacement home costs as much or more than the adjusted sales price of the former home, the tax on any gain is deferred. You may take advantage of this special tax break only if you buy a new home within one year before or after the sale of your former home. If you are building a replacement home, you must have started it within one year of the sale of the old and occupied it within 18 months of the sale of the old home.

O.K., the replacement home cost more than the adjusted sales price of the old home. Does this end it for me? No, there is one other step to be taken.

An adjustment must be made in the cost basis of the replacement home for future tax purposes. If, for example, you realized a gain of $6,000 on the first sale, but the tax on the gain is deferred for the reasons outlined above, the new cost basis of the new home would be the actual purchase price reduced by the $6,000 deferred gain.

Of course, the special tax break can be used over and over again continually deferring the tax on any gain so long as you move up with each replacement home.

Are the rules different if you are 65 or older when you sell your home?

Yes. If you were 65 and you sold a home that had been your principal residence for at least five of the eight years before the sale, you have no taxable gain if the adjusted sales price was $20,000 or less. It makes no difference how great the profit may have been.

If the adjusted sales price was more than $20,000, the part of the profit which would be tax free is the ratio between $20,000 and the adjusted sales price. Assume your adjusted sales price was $30,000 and your profit $15,000. In this case, $20,000 being two-thirds of $30,000, two-thirds of your $15,000 profit would be tax free. Only the remaining third or $5,000 would be taxable.

Exclusion of gain under this provision can be elected only once in a lifetime.

Chiang Ready to Return to Mainland

By SPENCER DAVIS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Chinese Nationalist Ambassador Chou Shu-kai said today President Chiang Kai-shek is ready to return to the mainland if present disorders lead to general chaos in Red China.

The Nationalist diplomat said in an interview that the time is drawing near in Red China for outside direction and organization. "That we can provide," he said.

Chou foresees three possible outcomes of the present situation:

— Success of Chairman Mao Tse-tung and his defense minister, Marshal Lin Biao in suppressing opposition to their rule. — An overthrow of the present hierarchy by the Communist party wing led by President Liu Shao-chi.

— General chaos resulting from the intensity of the current power struggle as rival leaders purge each other. This would leave the 700 million Chinese people virtually leaderless, he predicted.

"That is where we come in," said Chou. "We have been preparing for such a day and we cannot shed our responsibility to the Chinese people."

He said the return of the Nationalists would be a "political operation carried out militarily." Chou would not say whether support could be expected from the United States in such an eventuality.

Instead, he said there would not be a requirement for a large volume of shipping or for manpower. Chou recalled how Chiang marched north against the warlords four decades ago and unified China with only a few divisions at his command.

U. S. officials said there has been an exchange of views and information with Nationalist China on what is going on in the mainland. But there has been no consultation under terms of the security treaty between the two countries.

Washington officials would not comment on what they called a hypothetical situation involving any return by Chiang to the mainland.

Chou said the Red Chinese army presently is looking on as clashes break out between the Red Guards and workers groups.

"There is a breakdown of communications between the military high command and forces in the field," and it means that no one is giving orders to the army to suppress the rebel groups, the ambassador said.

Anti-Missile System in Budget Plea

By BOB HORTON
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon said officially today the question of whether the United States will deploy an antimissile system "will certainly be addressed" in the forthcoming defense budget.

But defense officials professed to have no indication of whether President Johnson already has made what some people consider one of the key military decisions in years.

The services — especially the Army, which would direct the antimissile system — were watching for signs and perhaps an outright announcement in tonight's State of the Union message by the President.

However, the Pentagon — replying to a series of questions — told The Associated Press:

"There is no magic time at which such a decision (to deploy antimissiles) must be either made or announced.

"The problem will certainly be addressed in the defense budget which will go to Congress early in the year.

"But this fact does not prohibit a decision being made at some other point in time, depending on any urgency that might or might not develop."

This cautiously worded statement obviously left open many avenues for the exact timing of any announcement on proceeding with an antiballistic missile — ABM — defense.

Spokesmen said the "urgency" referred to how swiftly Moscow moves in establishing its own network of missiles designed to intercept incoming warheads.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said late last year there is considerable evidence the Soviets are deploying an ABM.

His voluntary admission provided what may become political ammunition for the Republicans. Already, critics are talking of an "antimissile gap," contending the Johnson administration has allowed Moscow to move ahead in the arms field.

But the possibility that the Soviets may have an antimissile system is not the only factor to be considered in deciding how the United States counters, the Pentagon said.

Also involved, it added, "are other ingredients of deterrence such as the ICBM — intercontinental ballistic missile — capabilities of the United States and those of any potential enemy," as well as each country's force of manned strategic aircraft, submarines, active and passive defense measures and land and sea surface forces.

The United States leads the Soviet Union in ICBM's by a ratio of 3 or 4 to 1, officials say.

Johnson's Tragic Mistake That of Habitual Spender

After a year of broad hints that figured prominently in the November congressional election President Johnson yesterday put his administration on the line for a 6 per cent increase in the federal income tax.

It is eminently fair comment to say that the President is disregarding the mandate of the people last November, for the tax rise was a known issue at that time and the people responded by giving the Democratic administration a decisive vote of "No Confidence" - increasing the Republican delegation in the House by 47 seats, a record adverse vote in an "off-year" election.

Johnson's plea that a tax increase is needed to win the war is the spurious voice of a politician. Americans of both parties are pretty well united in the thought that the war must be won. Mr. Johnson's conservative opposition is equally entitled to state its objection that the money from any tax increase will be used to bolster his "Great Society" project on the home front rather than improving our position in Vietnam.

It is pretty obvious that America as the world's richest nation has plenty of resources to fight the Vietnam war with present taxes; but only if the President consents to cut back his extravagant social and political spending on the home front - which he stubbornly refuses to do.

This issue was made clear in the congressional campaigns in November and the people came up with a decisive answer - an answer the President refuses to heed.

But the new Congress, with many of the President's stalwarts missing, may pay more attention to the election returns than to his arguments for a tax increase.

Mr. Johnson is a strange mixture of political courage and human weakness. He has the courage to demand that his people honor their treaty commitments to protect Southeast Asia even at the cost of war, knowing that no war, however just, is popular - and yet the same man can't bear the thought of giving up his habit of spending money to get votes as a necessary sacrifice to win that war.

Equally strange is his contention that a tax increase will curb inflation. Quite obviously a tax increase will encourage inflation rather than reduce it. The public pays not only the cost of goods but all the taxes of the people who produce goods. Therefore any tax increase will inevitably be followed by higher consumer prices.

Strange logic - but common sense results.

Connally Is Upset by
JFK Book

By ROBERT HEARD
AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Upset by William Manchester's book on the Kennedy assassination, Texas Gov. John B. Connally has issued a statement saying President John F. Kennedy's "declining popularity" prompted the trip on which he lost his life.

Connally grimly read the 344-word statement to newsmen Tuesday. He declined further comment.

"This transparent attempt to dictate history through a captive voice is shocking," Connally said.

The first installment of a condensed version of Manchester's book, "The Death of a President," in Look magazine appeared on newsstands Tuesday. Connally said it purports to be actual history but "actually is a recitation of recollections and observations collected and reselected through the prism of prejudice."

"For example," he said, "it has been reported that President Kennedy was unwillingly brought to Texas to settle a local political argument."

"To the extent that there was any significant argument prior to the trip, it was between then Vice President Johnson and Sen. (Ralph) Yarborough (D-Tex), both of whom were readily available in Washington."

Rockefeller Sworn in as Governor

By GEORGE F. BARTSCH
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) - Orval Eugene Faubus, governor of Arkansas longer than any other man in history, said goodbye Monday to the job he'd known for six terms. Winthrop Rockefeller, the first Republican to be elected Arkansas governor since the days of Reconstruction, took his place. Those who watched the drama showed little emotion.

There was pomp and pageantry, of course, and applause interspersing the speeches, but even the standing ovations were somewhat restrained. There was scant remorse for the man who had held the office for 12 years, and little enthusiasm for the one who replaced him. From most, there seemed only acceptance.

If that was so, it was because the events were anticlimactic. The situations that made them inevitable had taken place some months before: Faubus declining to run for a seventh term, the nomination of Jim Johnson in the Democratic Primary and Rockefeller's victory in the general election. Had Faubus been defeated by Rockefeller, Tuesday might have been more emotional.

As it was, Faubus was retiring undefeated when he said: "... a little word that breaks the chain of years; it's utterance must ever bring emotion; The memories it crystals cannot die, 'tis known in every land, on every ocean - 'Tis called 'Good-bye.'"

The more than 300 persons jamming the House chamber and galleries applauded him. They stood up as he left the rostrum, gathered his granddaughter, Fara, into his arms, and left the chamber as a private citizen. But most of their eyes were dry, and the applause faded when he was gone.

At Rockefeller's inauguration that afternoon, even marches played by the Little Rock Central High School band failed to arouse much enthusiasm from the crowd of approximately 2,800 persons who listened to the new governor accept their trust in the spirit of his late mother's favorite Biblical quotation: "And what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God."

They interrupted his nearly gestureless speech 30 times, 26 times more than Faubus was interrupted, but their applause was scarcely more than polite, and few members of the General Assembly applauded at all.

Both Faubus' valdictory address and Rockefeller's inaugural address were televised.

Both men wore charcoal-gray suits with white carnations in the lapels. Faubus was wearing a maroon tie with a black pattern, and Rockefeller had on the cowboy boots that became a symbol of him during his election campaign.

Rockefeller spoke at Robinson Auditorium, before an elaborate, three-dimensional backdrop constructed of walnut and trimmed with green felt. It consisted of a large rectangular tower featuring the Great Seal of Arkansas on its face, and two smaller towers flanking it on each side. A Rockefeller aide said the backdrop was built by the Arkansas Arts Center and paid for by Rockefeller. Rockefeller, a native of New York, becomes the state's 37th governor. He moved to Arkansas in 1953, and almost immediately began to build the Republican Party into the power that swept him into office last November. Faubus defeated him in his first election bid in 1964, and Rockefeller had been campaigning ever since.

Would Protect
Rural Offices

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., says he is disturbed by proposals to close rural post offices.

Aiken said in a letter to Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien that the closing of 1,000 rural offices would save only enough money to buy one warplane.

Maddox Asks
for Unity in Georgia

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) - Segregationist Lester G. Maddox appealed for unity and support as governor of Georgia after turning a second-place popular vote into victory in the legislature.

"Friends and opponents," he said after taking the oath Tuesday night, "let us join ourselves together and do a good job." But even as he called for unity, Maddox came under fire from a Negro leader who said the election sharply retarded racial progress.

Maddox, 51, a Democrat known for refusing to desegregate his Atlanta cafeteria, easily defeated Republican nominee Howard H. Callaway in Tuesday night's balloting by the heavily Democratic legislature, ending a stalemate created by write-in votes. In the November election he had carried 130 of the state's 159 counties.

The vote was 182-66, climaxing an all-day session of vote canvassing, debate and laborious roll-call votes. Maddox needed at the most 130 votes in the legislature.

Maddox quickly went to the governor's office and took the oath to close off possible further legal complications in the climax to one of Georgia's strangest political campaigns.

"There have been a lot of long days and this was the longest of them all," Maddox said after it was over. He had stayed by a television set during the legislative proceedings.

Callaway, 39, a conservative and millionaire son of a textile industrialist, said at a capitol news conference: "I congratulate him."

Then, his voice breaking, he told a small group of friends, "perhaps we can meet again in another day and in another race."

Maddox's election was described as a mockery of the right to vote in a statement by the Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, vice president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and close associate of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The decision, Abernathy said, "sets back racial progress in the state of Georgia, perhaps for a whole century." He said Maddox's record "stands for racial injustice."

"All Georgians must face the fact that this selection of a governor suggests to a small but understandingly embittered electorate that they should turn to violence as a solution to their problems," Abernathy said, calling for efforts to "rally the people against new attempts at racial exploitation."

The issue was thrown into the legislature after both the U.S. Supreme Court and the Georgia Supreme Court had upheld a state constitutional provision requiring legislative election when no candidate has a popular vote majority.

In the official canvass by the legislature which took nearly 453,665 votes, Maddox had 450,626 and write-in candidates 52,831 - most of them held by Ellis G. Arnall, a moderate former governor.

Entering the packed House chamber minutes after taking the oath, Maddox flashed victory signs with both hands and said: "My heart is full. I am humbled and honored by the decision of this august body."

Maddox, who sold his cafeteria rather than integrate in 1964, got one Negro legislator's vote, that of freshman Rep. Richard A. Dent of Augusta. Nine legislators, including eight Negroes, abstained.

Refused Seat,
Powell Yells
'Third Party'

By JOHN BECKLER
WASHINGTON (AP) - Adam Clayton Powell urges Negroes to break their long allegiance to the Democratic party, and hints that a third party may be their best political weapon.

Stung by the refusal Tuesday of the House to seat him at least until a committee probes his qualifications, Powell told cheering Negro followers on the Capitol steps: "We might start a third party!"

They cheered wildly and chanted, "Adam for president! Adam for president!"

He told them to stop paying their taxes and to stop supporting the two major political parties.

Later, in a statement, Powell called on Negroes "along with our white friends" to consider "a new independent course of action in which they are the balance of power in all elections."

Republicans and many Democrats joined Tuesday in rebutting efforts by the Democratic leadership to have Powell seated as a member of the new Congress while his qualifications are investigated.

Instead, he was told in a 364 to 64 vote to stand aside while a special nine-member committee, to be named next week, examines his qualifications in the light of widespread charges that he has abused his congressional office in the past.

The committee is to make its recommendation in five weeks. Powell is to keep his pay and office staff in the interim.

"It all depends on Adam," said a member. "If he gets together with the committee and is corraigned he might get off with being censured. But I don't expect him to be seated."

Powell didn't sound like a man interested in getting together with his House colleagues.

"They're the biggest bunch of political hypocrites in the world," he told the crowd outside the Capitol, which closed in on him and held him tightly pressed in its midst.

Powell urged them to stand black and solid against the white world.

"What has happened to me has crystallized the black masses," he said. "What they're doing to me will mushroom from Watts to Harlem."

Later, Powell flayed Northern liberals and the Republican party as the new leaders "of sophisticated race hatred in America. They are the black man's new grave-diggers."

Court Looks
Into Baker's
Money Deals

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY
WASHINGTON (AP) - A federal court plunges deeper today into the financial dealings of Bobby Baker, former secretary to Senate Democrats. He is on trial for tax evasion, larceny and conspiracy.

Chief government prosecutor William O. Bittman charged in his opening statement Tuesday that Baker pocketed thousands of dollars from campaign contributions destined for an undisclosed number of senators.

Bittman then began calling prosecution witnesses, questioning them closely about a maze of checks, accounts and who paid whom from which account.

Before the trial recessed its second day, defense attorney Edward Bennett Williams had wheeled a big white chalkboard into the courtroom and, with light blue chalk, began jotting down figures and adding them up.

Baker, 38, has pleaded innocent to charges of income tax evasion, larceny, larceny after trust, interstate transportation of stolen money and conspiracy. His trial is expected to last more than two months.

The names of the senators were not stated, but later in the day the late Sen. Robert S. Kerr, Oklahoma Democrat and oil millionaire, got a fleeting mention.

More Than He
Bargained for

PORTALES, N.M. (AP) - An advertising workman got more publicity than he bargained for when he dug a post hole for a sign board Monday.

The workman severed all long-distance telephone service in this eastern New Mexico city when he chopped through an underground cable.

U.S. Troops
Continue
Big Offense

By ROBERT TUCKMAN
SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) - Armored U.S. columns plunged deep into the "Iron Triangle" from the east today and the Communist toll reported in the big American drive climbed to 165 dead.

The four-day-old campaign to neutralize the jungled triangular area 20 to 30 miles north of Saigon was supported by another raid at midday by B52 heavy bombers, the 11th since Operation Cedar Falls began.

U.S. military spokesmen reported frequent contact with small enemy groups but no large-scale engagement so far. They said the 60-square-mile area was pulverized by about 400 U.S. tactical air strikes in the last four days in addition to the heavy B52 raids.

Elsewhere, South Vietnamese military headquarters reported government forces killed 172 Viet Cong soldiers and captured 26 during five scattered engagements, four of them in the northern part of the country 318 to 354 miles northeast of Saigon.

In the largest of these clashes, Vietnamese rangers and infantrymen reported 77 Viet Cong killed 318 miles northeast of Saigon. A spokesman said half of the enemy casualties resulted from air strikes and government casualties were light.

Nine U.S. Marines were presumed killed today in the crash of a helicopter into the South China Sea off the coast near Chu Lai, a Marine Corps spokesman announced in Da Nang. He said the UH34 helicopter apparently had an engine failure.

Vietnamese headquarters reported that the Tri Tam airfield 38 miles northwest of Saigon took an estimated 100 rounds of Viet Cong mortar fire early today, but there was no report on casualties.

In an unusual raid in the Mekong Delta, B52 bombers hammered at dawn at a Viet Cong base camp in mangrove swamps in Vinh Binh Province 87 miles south-southwest of Saigon.

Forward air controllers, directing the rare delta raid, reported nine secondary explosions, indicating hits on munitions or fuel. There was no indication whether the strike by the Guam-based B52s was a forerunner of another U.S. invasion of the Communist-infested delta.

SS Changes
Johnson
Proposes

WASHINGTON (AP) - Here is a breakdown of changes in the Social Security law proposed to Congress Tuesday night by President Johnson:

Improved benefits would range from 15 to 59 per cent for the 23 million Americans receiving payments with an overall average improvement of 20 per cent.

Minimum payments would rise from $44 to $70 monthly.

Any person with 25 years coverage would receive a minimum benefit of $100 monthly.

Medical care benefits would be extended to 1.5 million permanently and totally disabled Americans under 65.

The effective date for the improved benefits would be July 1. No tax increase to pay for the improvements would take effect until Jan. 1, 1968, and would include not only a hike in tax rates but also an increase in the amount of income on which the tax is levied. Johnson gave no details on this, however.

LBJ's Tax Increase
Designed to Help
War, Slow Inflation

AP News Digest

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Johnson's request for a 6 per cent tax increase, which undoubtedly surprised some economists, is designed not only to raise money for the Vietnam war but also to reduce inflationary strains.

The Johnson administration came under strong pressure during the first part of 1966 to propose a tax increase as a hedge against inflation. But many economists have since changed their minds and some now fear a tax boost might lead to recession.

Administration officials see the picture differently, however. "There are differences of opinion," one top administration source said when asked about the recession talk. "Our views on the economy are to expect a healthy advance."

He said the instability of the economy feared by some economists is exaggerated.

"A prudent tax increase of this spot is what is appropriate to prevent a too-rapid rise in the activity and prices we had last year," the source said.

Congressional reaction to the proposed tax hike was less than enthusiastic, with a number of members saying expenditures should be trimmed first.

Earlier, an informal poll of members of Congress showed almost solid opposition had developed to a tax increase now. The Republican leadership is pledged to cuts in spending to "avert the threat of higher taxes."

By proposing a July 1 effective date for the 6 per cent surtax, Johnson gives himself and Congress another six months to watch the economy.

This follows closely a plan proposed earlier this month by Walter W. Heller, former chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers. Heller said a July 1 effective date fits his projected economic pattern for 1967 - a slackening in the immediate months ahead with a pickup following.

Johnson said his administration will continue a sensible course of fiscal and budgetary policy during 1967 to keep the economy growing without new inflationary strains, to finance Vietnam needs and the needs at home, to help improve the U.S. trade balance and to help ease credit and reduce interest rates.

Administration leaders called the surtax fair and equitable and a levy which hits everyone proportionately, does not become imbedded in the tax structure and is easy to remove.

What it means is that a person who pays $600 in income taxes would pay 6 per cent, or $36, additional.

Many Want
Cutback,
No Tax Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Johnson has asked Congress to increase taxes to help pay for the Vietnam war in which "we face more cost, more loss, and more agony." Congressional reaction to a tax boost is cool.

After thundering approval Tuesday night for Johnson's State of the Union declaration to "stand firm in Vietnam," Republicans and many majority Democratic said a domestic budget cutback - not a tax boost - is the way to finance the fighting.

Johnson proposed a 6 per cent surcharge on corporate and most personal income taxes to last two years or longer unless war costs drop. Married couples with two children and incomes up to $5,000 yearly would be exempt, as would single persons with incomes up to $1,900.

The President indicated he wants the increase effective next July 1. He said the plan would raise about $4.5 billion in its first year.

His proposal would cost an extra 6 cents for each dollar paid in income taxes. As an example, a person who now pays $1,000 a year would pay $60 more.

The President told the Congress and the nation, "We shall continue on a sensible course of fiscal and budgetary policy that will keep our economy growing without new inflationary strains; finance the needs of our men in Vietnam and the progress of our people at home; support a significant improvement in our export surplus, and press forward toward easier credit and lower interest rates."

He said he planned to send a detailed report to Congress on the situation in Southeast Asia, particularly in Vietnam.

"I wish I could report to you that the conflict is almost over," he said. "This I cannot do. We face more cost, more loss, and more agony. For the end is not yet. I cannot promise you that it will come this year - or come next year. Our adversary still believes tonight that he can go on fighting longer than we and our allies will stand up and resist."

In his 70-minute address, the President said he has no intention of scuttling his domestic programs. But he conceded there have been "setbacks and mistakes" that must be corrected. Not once did he use his usual label of "Great Society."

Doesn't
See Chance
for Peace

HONG KONG (AP) - Harrison E. Salisbury, an assistant managing editor of the New York Times, said today he does not believe that Communist North Vietnam can be "compelled to come to a conference table."

"These people strike me as being very tough, very hardy, very independent and very courageous," Salisbury said in a taped interview with Radio Hong Kong on his two-week visit to North Vietnam.

"They say, and I rather believe them, that you cannot drag them to the conference table: that they can't be beaten into submission."

"They would rather go back to the jungles and the mountains and fight a guerrilla war for 20 years against the United States as they did against the French."

Reporting his findings during two weeks of talks and observation in the Communist capital, Salisbury said he did not believe a serious military defeat would force Hanoi into negotiations.

"I think there are two circumstances which highly color the thinking of the North Vietnamese," Salisbury said.
